The couple lived for a time in a handsome house on West End avenue, near Eighty-sixth street, but later lived at the Waldorf-Astoria. Mrs. Fornes went to Paris about four years ago, and although there was no quarrel the couple have been practically separated ever since. Mr. Fornes has allowed his wife $2,500 a year. It is understood she had social and stage aspirations with which her husband had no sympathy.

with which her husband had no sympathy.

Mrs. Fornes has been living at Poultney since the death of her mother a few months ago. Just before Mr. Fornes sailed for Europe in the early spring the suit was brought on the ground of desertion and an attempt was made to serve him with papers on shipboard. He avoided this by keeping close to his stateroom. The papers were served as he was leaving the resumer on his return recently.

Mr. Fornes is said to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Eleventh District. He was for many years President of the Catholic Club and was elected President of the Catholic Club and was elected President of the Catholic Club and was blacked President of the Catholic Club

When the different bands reached the heighborhood of the bakery they joined forces and rushed the place. Men and women were in an ugly mood, and fell upon the proprietor and non-nion bakers, beating them and throwing them down the cellar stairs.

Women Wreck Store.

While the men were clubbing their the store, stripping the sielves of bread and cake, smashing showcases and windows and creating general havoc. Calling upon every available man in the station the Captain started for the scene of riot on the double quick. When the platoon of policemen reached the place, they had to fight their way through the throng with their clubs, beating down men and women, who assalled them with curses and missiles. The strikers turned on the policeman and fought them savagely, injuring one and having their heads broken with night sticks. Many of the rioters were
